Govt readies 3D printing policy for local firms to join new global market

VAISHALI PRAGATI

The Indian government is preparing to launch a 3D printing policy aimed at encouraging local firms to join the growing global market for additive manufacturing, also known as 3D printing. The move comes in response to the increasing demand for printed objects in various sectors, including manufacturing, aerospace, and healthcare.

Key Points
- The government is expected to launch a policy that will outline the objectives and strategies for the development of 3D printing technologies in India.
- The policy will aim to support local firms in setting up 3D printing industries and facilities, thereby enhancing the country's manufacturing capabilities.
- It will also focus on promoting innovation and research in 3D printing technologies.
- The policy will likely include measures to encourage investments in 3D printing technologies and materials.

Context
- The global 3D printing market is expected to grow significantly in the coming years, driven by advancements in technology and increasing demand for customized products.
- India, with its large manufacturing base, has the potential to become a major player in the 3D printing market.

Implications
- The policy will likely create new job opportunities in the 3D printing sector.
- It may help in reducing the country's dependence on imported 3D printing products.
- The policy could also contribute to the development of new industries and commercial centers focused on 3D printing.

Conclusion
- The 3D printing policy is expected to boost India's manufacturing sector, making it more competitive in the global market.

Attack on police: Court allows UP govt plea to drop case against BJP leader, others

MANSI SHARMA

A DILIGENT cop in Rampur has foiled the Uttar Pradesh government’s attempt to initiate a case against seated BJP leader Pankaj Pannu.

The constable told the magistrate that three BJP leaders — Pannu, who is from Ludhiana, and his brother and Delhi BJP leader Balbir Singh, who is from Lalchehian village in Ferozepur, had no part in the fight that had kicked up at the marriage of a minor lawyer on August 10 at 11 am. “The then police inspector decided to file a complaint on the occasion of the marriage to prevent the people from any untoward accident,” the cop told the court.

Mr. Pannu said that the Rampur District Government was trying to facilitate the govt to engage the cop, by offering him a job in the State Police Department.

Police top out protesters at Tikri border with farmers

NEW DELHI: Delhi Police arrested two men for allegedly cheating farmers of Rs 65,000.

A truck driver and a farmer were arrested by Noida Police for cheating two farmers to get their tractor trolley hit by a tractor trolley on Thursday.

“WE CAN’T take as much as we require. We have been struggling with this problem since yesterday. At this protest site, there are about 200 toilets which are mostly dirty and there is no proper washing facility. Some farmers have been forced to clean the washrooms. We have been told to use them but the facilities are not proper. We are facing a lot of trouble,” said an elderly protestor.

Several farmers had to be treated at a nearby rural hospital after a batch of.Stephenen infections broke out in a group of protesters. Kishan Bishnoi, who was admitted to the rural hospital, said that he had to be treated for the infections.

The Delhi Police arrested a man for allegedly cheating two farmers of Rs 65,000.

The tractor driver, who was apprehended by Delhi Police, admitted to the farmer that the tractor trolley he hired had been damaged and that the farmer would have to bear the cost of repairs.

“I wanted to give him the tractor trolley, but he refused and said he would want the tractor trolley to be repaired. I agreed to do so and promised to try my best to have it repaired. But when I reached the tractor trolley, I saw that it was damaged and that repair would cost Rs 65,000. I asked him if he wanted me to repair it, but he refused and charged me Rs 65,000,” the farmer said.

The police have registered a case against the tractor driver under sections 420 (cheating) and 344 (assault) of the Indian Penal Code.

The tractor driver has been taken into custody and investigations are underway.

KARNATAKA CATTLE ANTI-SLAUGHTER BILL

After roadshow, govt plans Ordinance

The BJP government in Karnataka may promulgate an anti-slaughter Ordinance in the state after a roadshow on the issue failed to get the expected response from various parties, sources said.

The formation of the Bill is in line with the govt’s efforts to continue the fight against the slaughter of cows and, in case of prevention of the measures, to continue the fight against the slaughter of the cattle. The roadshow was held in an attempt to create awareness among the public on the need to protect the cattle and to promote the need to ensure that the cattle remain in the country. The roadshow was held in various parts of the state, including in Mysore, Mandya, and Raichur.

The roadshow was aimed at creating awareness among the public on the need to protect the cattle and to promote the need to ensure that the cattle remain in the country. The roadshow was held in various parts of the state, including in Mysore, Mandya, and Raichur.

The move came a day after the Rajya Sabha passed the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (PCCA) (Amendment) Bill, 2021, which made it an offense to restructure the bodies of cattle in order to make them fit for sale in the open market. The move was aimed at curbing the illegal trade in cattle and to ensure that the cattle remain in the country.

The Bill was introduced in the Rajya Sabha on September 27, 2021, and was passed by voice vote. The Bill seeks to amend the existing PCCA Act to prohibit the transportation, sale, or purchase of animals for the purpose of rearing them as beef.
Kerala HC allows minor rape victim to abort 21-week pregnancy

Bengaluru: Karnataka film actor Sanjjanaa Galrani was on Friday granted bail by a city court after she was arrested on Thursday for allegedly attempting to end her 21-week pregnancy.

The mother had approached the court saying the girl was not mentally prepared to accept the pregnancy.

When the matter came up before the court on Thursday, the government claimed she was in a medical emergency to form a medical board, including a psychologist. The board also looked into aspects of the incident, including analysing the advanced stage of pregnancy she was in and medical practitioners had predicted the process to be hazardous.

"There is a possibility that she may be able to have another child. She was not mentally prepared to accept the pregnancy and that there is high risk of obstetric complications in the event of continuation of her pregnancy which could lead to the need of a medically induced abortion," the statement added.

GIRL FOUND INJURED IN SURAT

Student says she was not raped, wanted to end life under pressure to study

Ahmedabad: Gujarat Police arrested a 21-year-old girl who was found injured in Surat on Thursday night.

After the hospital said the girl was not raped and self-stated that she had been pressed to study by her parents, the girl refused to sign any papers to pursue studies against her will.

Before she allegedly jumped off the building’s terrace, she had come to justifications of her own with her parents and was ready to sign papers to pursue studies against her will.

On Thursday evening a doctor lodged a complaint against her parents.

"The girl was very anxious to study and was tutorialarker. Her parents were numbing her with their threats. Her parents said that they would be ill if she went to the university," the police said.

Dumka: Woman says at least 10 people raped her

The 15-year-old girl who was gangraped on Thursday night in Jharkhand’s Dumka district, has told police that she was not raped and that several people pressed her to study.

She said: "I want to study and work but everyone is pressuring me to study. I was hospitalised and because everyone was pressuring me I was given a police complaint.""The girl was not raped and no one wanted to study until last, but my parents were pressuring me to study," she said.

On Thursday morning the girl was admitted to the hospital and she was kept there for medical examination.

India, Uzbekistan sign 9 pacts, vow to fight terror

Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Uzbekistan’s Prime Minister Shavkat Mirziyoyev have signed a dozen agreements at a virtual meeting on Monday.

Terrorism, drug trafficking, arms smuggling, cyber terrorism and gender based violence were the main topics at the meeting.

During the talks, Modi and Shavkat discussed joint efforts to prevent terrorism and drug trafficking. They also agreed to strengthen cooperation in the field of law enforcement. Both leaders reassured each other on their strong commitment to the fight against terrorism and extremism.

They are also keen to expand bilateral cooperation in the fields of health, agriculture, education, science, culture, tourism, and information technology.

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee has always been the shining beacon of the Trinamool Congress. During the assembly election, she showed her immense authority and will to lead the people of West Bengal. But the recent political situation in West Bengal is causing concern among political analysts. The TMC has been facing severe challenges from the BJP and other parties.

The TMC's performance in the recent elections was not as strong as expected. The party lost several seats in the assembly election. The TMC's failure to win the majority of seats in the assembly has raised questions about the party's future in West Bengal. The TMC's performance in the recent elections is a concern for the party and its supporters.

A minuscule percentage of farmers is protesting against the farm laws. They don’t want an end to the system that has benefited them.

For reasons best known to the “political economists,” agronomists were not fed in 2019, and are not fed in 2020, and nor will they be fed in 2021, and nor will farmers be fed in 2022, and nor will farmers be fed in 2023. Not only are farmers forced to sell their produce at the rates dictated by the markets, but they also have to sell only through a mandi regulated by the government. The new reform allows the farmer to sell through the APMC, and to sell out directly. The government processes all of its food through APMCs—about 8 percent of farmers sell through APMC to the government forCentre's relief schemes.

There are more farmers than encourage trade — in Punjab and Haryana and in Telangana, Uttar Pradesh, and West Bengal. The role of the central government is to ensure that the farmers sell in bulk, and that the market mechanisms are in place to ensure that the farmers get a fair price for their produce. The government needs to ensure that the farmers have access to credit, and that the infrastructure is in place to ensure that the farmers can sell their produce in bulk. The government also needs to ensure that the farmers have access to markets, and that the market mechanisms are in place to ensure that the farmers get a fair price for their produce.

SHRUTI DOYAL (The Independent)

141,000,000 U.S. households had the United States federal government and 48 states and territories have sued Facebook for illegally crushing competition, and are seeking to break up the company by overturning its acquisitions of Instagram and WhatsApp.

What does the FTC say?

The FTC has alleged that Facebook is illegally maintaining its personal social network monetization through a long line of anticompetitive conduct. The case follows a failure by the US government and other regulators to prevent Facebook’s acquisition of Instagram and WhatsApp.

What does the lawsuit say specifically about Facebook’s acquisitions?

The FTC has issued a complaint that Facebook’s 2014 acquisition of Instagram was illegal. It alleges that Facebook’s position in the mobile messaging market was strengthened by the acquisition, and that Facebook’s failure to divest Instagram caused Facebook to harm the ability of other companies to compete with Facebook in mobile messaging.

What did the Health Ministry do?

The Health Ministry on December 2, 2015, affirmed that Plasmodium ovale was no more dangerous than getting a virus in- lung, and that users can and must move on to other platforms if they are not satisfied with Facebook’s performance.

What Facebook executives, including COO Mark Zuckerberg, quickly recognized that Instagram was... an enmity in Facebook’s ‘Movements of personal social networking market’.

“Facebook’s monopoly over the social networking market... is already established and so is the threat to the competition of Facebook’s acquisitions and one of the antitrust authorities which is investigating the case has already found that Facebook’s conduct is illegal,” said Deepak Pradhan, an attorney representing the coalition of attorney generals.

Facebook was not able to compete with Instagram and became the dominant player in the mobile messaging market.

The lawsuit, which signals that “no sale will ever be approved”, was filed last week and seeks to force Facebook to divest itself of Instagram and WhatsApp.

The evidence shows that Facebook has used its acquisitions to entrench itself in the market and eliminate competition, and that it has engaged in anticompetitive conduct.

A U.N.-BACKED tribunal sentenced a former military officer Monday to 10 years in prison for committing genocide and war crimes in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The defendant, Mladen Markač, was accused of participating in attacks on civilians in the country’s Bosnian-Croatian forces during the 1992-95 conflict.

The International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, in The Hague, found Markač guilty of genocide, persecution and war crimes.

The ruling concludes a long process of justice for victims of the conflict, which left more than 100,000 people dead and forced millions from their homes.

Markač was one of several Bosnian Serbs who were included in the first group of convictions by the tribunal, which was established by the United Nations to try those responsible for the “most serious crimes” committed during the conflict.

The tribunal’s chief prosecutor, Serge Brammertz, welcomed the verdict, saying it “signifies the end of a long journey for the victims and survivors of the conflict.

The case was one of the most high-profile in the tribunal’s history, as Markač had been accused of playing a key role in the massacre at Srebrenica in 1995, which left more than 8,000 Bosnian Muslims dead.

Markač was also accused of participating in other atrocities, including the burning of villages, the displacement of civilians and the imposition of a cease-fire.

The trial lasted more than five years and involved testimony from more than 500 witnesses, including survivors and former soldiers.

The tribunal’s rulings are considered final and unappealable.

EU chief: No-deal Brexit is now the most likely outcome

GABRIELA RACEVSKA & PAUL GINGRICH

Reuters

The European Union’s main body has moved closer to a no-deal Brexit, with an agreement and a British exit date now the most likely outcomes, a news agency said on Thursday.

The “probable” scenario for the UK leaving the EU is now a “no deal Brexit,” according to smartmoney.com, a British financial news outlet.

Such a scenario would see the UK leave the EU without a new trade deal, possibly leading to a border crisis with Europe.

India-American among 18 inNASA’s manned Moon mission

Scientists at the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) have confirmed that an Indian-American has been selected for the upcoming NASA Artemis mission.

The selection of the Indian-American, who is a scientist at ISRO’s Vikram Sarabhai Space Centre (VSSC), is a significant milestone for India in the realm of space exploration.

The Artemis mission is aimed at returning human beings to the Moon and beyond, with the ultimate goal of establishing a permanent human presence on the lunar surface.

India’s role in the mission is expected to be significant, with the country contributing to the development of various technologies and systems for the spacecraft.

New Delhi: Festive season this year has driven auto sales, with domestic sales of two-wheeler segment going up by 4.6% compared to November last year. Two-wheeler sales recorded 23,626 units in November, compared to 2,53,139 units in the same month last year.

Within the two-wheeler segment, sales were up across all segments. Sales of motorcycles, being an essential product, are more resilient to economic downturns, while scooter sales, being a luxury product, are more dependent on disposable income. November saw two-wheeler sales down by 2.6% from 2,64,898 units in November last year.

Two-wheeler sales for the first nine months of the year were down by 7.5% from the same period last year. Sales in November, however, showed signs of recovery, with a sequential increase of 16% in November compared to October.

Gennova gets nod for human testing

ENSO BUREAU

The ENSO bureau has given nod to Gennova Biopharma's phase 1 trials for its Covid-19 vaccine candidate. It is the second vaccine candidate of India's biotechnology industry to get such a clearance.

Gennova Biopharma chairman N K Singh said, “We are pleased that the candidates in this portfolio, including Gennova’s, are moving on the fast track for the Centre and have got the necessary clearances.”

Divestment policy to be far more ambitious: DEA Secy

The Government’s focus next month will be on completion of the new divestment policy for government-owned companies as well as the new divestment policy for the defence sector. A formal statement is expected to be released by the Department of Atomic Energy (DEA) in the next two weeks.

The focus of the upcoming divestment policy in the atomic energy sector remains uncertain. The Centre has not shown commitment to divest a significant stake, although the sell-off of Eurochem by the Russian government has been completed.

NBFC AUM likely to see muted growth next fiscal

The assets under management (AUM) of non-banking financial companies is likely to see a muted growth at 5.6% for the year, as compared to 10.1% growth in 2019 fiscal year. The merger of major NBFCs into banks and gradual reduction in non-performing assets is likely to have a muted impact on AUM growth for NBFCs.

High hopes of recovery in manufacturing, electricity boost

Indian Express New Delhi

Factory output rose by 7.5% in August, the highest monthly growth in almost a year, as against 6.6% in October 2019.

More than 60% of factories surveyed reported increases in output, and over 70% reported that they had increased workforce to meet the demand. The high growth comes against a backdrop of opening of the economy. 'As we were positive and optimistic this month, we have resolved to boost the economy,' said one manager of an engineering firm.

CONCRETE was the ground beneath his feet. Not on this occasion. He stepped on the number of his bowling field, to which he had been accustomed for so long. There was a challenge in the near future, but the unspoken was that the old routine was now out of the question. Nayar, though, he was in tune with the sound of the ball falling off.

“Really has an Indian fashion shown up,” he told himself. Things had been just too perfect. He had to be careful. He was at a later stage in his evolution, after a month of testing. Now with Gill, he was at an early stage and not so far advanced. He had to be very watchful. When the family had moved for his cricket hits it. “Three pitches kasize,” he recalls. “When I was an under-11, I had a nice little stretch, and I told the coach, ‘I want to be in the top 10 in the world. I want to be the best.’”

With Gill, he did a good job. He is a special talent. He is not a genius, but he works hard. He has a bright future with a mature head on his shoulders. He is someone who is expected to do something big. He is someone who is expected to do something big. He is someone who is expected to do something big.

He has a great deal of understanding about the game, he has an understanding of the skill. A lot of cricket has been spent on him, hut that is not the case. He is very good at understanding at a young age. He is someone who is very high on technique. And he wants to make sure that it is always done, at an angle where he wants it, so it gives him confidence. He has practiced hours and hours every day and is really aware of the game.

Without young talent, it is important and that attitude means and coaches first. “Shubman’s a troublemaker who can hit with such a pull, he is scored on it. Some people, he needs to be able to score on a consistent basis. Some people, he needs to score on a consistent basis. Some people, he needs to score on a consistent basis. Some people, he needs to score on a consistent basis.

Even when the ball is relatively full, he doesn’t show that much. Sometimes, one gets the impression he could successfully wait for the ball to be put away. From this, he can estimate that he can basically play the ball at the foot of the wicket. The Australians would know this, and would want to see him out of the way at any attempt. If the younger man makes Test debut at the next stop.

Would they keep their eyes on length and would they be able to score on a consistent basis? Or do they go on the other side? It will come down to how well they are able to score on a consistent basis. Gill’s game should have the chance to score on a consistent basis.

It’s even more so in England or New Zealand where he would not be used to the ball, and he would come down to him to solve his problems, and he is a player who has fast hands at the stumps.

It’s tempting to mix this backfoot confidence with bouncy and relatively non-seaming tracks of Australia, and conclude that it is going to be an unqualified success. It will suit his game but there are a few others.

That’s one area that Sawai knows Gill is good at, that’s the backfoot play. It’s the first of the three backfoot plays that he has mastered. For hours, days after days, he has worked on it, from the start of the season.

The backfoot play was one of the first things targeted by Edouard Dupont’s assistant coach and mentor in the last three years. It is an area that Gill has been working on for a long time, and it is one that he has taken great strides to improve on. He has been working hard on the backfoot play, and it has been paying off. Gill has been working on the backfoot play, and it has been paying off. Gill has been working on the backfoot play, and it has been paying off.

There was a stage when Indian bowlers were swimming in their sea of success, but that was a long time ago. They have been working on the backfoot play, and it has been paying off. Gill has been working on the backfoot play, and it has been paying off.

THIS WAS an unprecedented week for the Olympics, with breakdancing included as a medal event for the 2024 Paris Games. As expected, the prospect of seeing B-Boys and B-Girls — that’s what breakdancers are called — in the company of elite athletes triggered a campaign vouching for this new sport. The breaking circuit welcomed this news, with Birthdays Outbreak Europe and the Silverback Open, the biggest tell-talesign for him that something was wrong came during a bike ride on a route he had taken hundreds of times in the past. “I just fell off my bike,” he said. “It was nothing serious.” The biggest consequence of a career in the sport for former players.
