Two snipped scenes in Tandav mark streaming OTT debut of FBG

The February 8, 2021, report on the The Indian Express website of India presented a discussion about the initial reception of the OTT series Tandav. The article highlighted the concerns raised by the Information and Broadcasting Ministry over the series' portrayal of politics, which led to a discussion on the role of content on OTT platforms. The report also mentioned the series' budget and the involvement of Bollywood actors, along with an interview with the show's producer Bobby Deol. The article concluded with a statement from the Information and Broadcasting Ministry expressing its concerns over the series, indicating a possible delay in its release or further edits before its streaming. The overall focus of the report was on the regulatory scrutiny of content on OTT platforms and the government's role in ensuring that content aligns with the nation's values and norms.

When the US President-elect stormed into the US Capitol building on January 6, the world witnessed a reign of terror that shook the foundation of the democratic process. In the wake of this event, the US government was forced to undertake a review of its security arrangements, leading to a series of measures aimed at enhancing the safety of the Capitol building.

First-time politics don’t expect refills: Trump

On Wednesday, Prime Minister Narendra Modi held a crucial meeting with the leaders of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) and the Indian National Congress (INC) to discuss the ongoing farmers’ agitation. The meeting was held in the wake of the recent farmers’ protests in Delhi and the surrounding areas, which have sparked widespread concern and outrage. During the meeting, Prime Minister Modi expressed his determination to find a peaceful resolution to the ongoing conflict.

Biden’s claim to the presidency has been met with skepticism in certain quarters, with some experts questioning his readiness to take on the presidency. However, the Biden team has been working tirelessly to prepare for the incoming administration, with a focus on addressing some of the most pressing issues facing the country:

India-DPRK

India and North Korea are set to hold a meeting on Thursday to discuss ways to strengthen their bilateral ties, which have been strained in recent years. The meeting comes as India and North Korea are trying to rebuild their relationship, which has been affected by a series of nuclear and missile tests conducted by the North Korean regime.

The meeting will be attended by senior officials from both countries, who will discuss a range of issues, including trade, economic cooperation, and regional security. The two sides are expected to sign a joint statement outlining their commitment to strengthen their bilateral relations.

The meeting is a significant development in the Indo-DPRK relationship, which has been characterized by a series of setbacks in recent years. The two sides have been unable to reach a consensus on key issues, including the denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula.

10% of Delhi children between 6 and 17 of school age

Many drop out because of financial constraints; after Express report, educational officials attempt to trace such kids, bring them back to class

MAHENDERSINGH

Dhil and her classmates were not among the 11.5% who had dropped out. The school, like most others, did not have a record of those who had dropped out. This became apparent when the school, as per norms, conducted a survey conducted by the Delhi government to assess how many children were not in school and the reasons behind it.

The survey, conducted by the Delhi government, revealed that 11.5% of Delhi children had dropped out of school.

According to the survey, 61.96% of children in the age group of 6-17 years were literate. Of these, 12.15% were primary school students, 1.51% were secondary school students, and 5.80% were higher secondary school students.

The survey also revealed that 19.9% of children in the age group of 6-17 years were not in school. Of these, 16.25% were out of school because they had dropped out, and 3.65% were not in school because they were working.

Among the children who had dropped out, 5.8% were girls and 94.2% were boys. The survey also revealed that 66.6% of children who had dropped out were from the economically weaker sections of society.

The survey was conducted in November 2018 and March 2019.

Terrorists with AK-47, Khalistan flags: Dausa BJP MP on farm protests

A VIDEO of a BJP MP from Dausa calling police to shoot dead terrorists carrying AK-47 rifles, with his image superimposed, has surfaced on social media.

The fake video has spread like wildfire on social media platforms, including WhatsApp and Facebook, where it has been shared by thousands of users.

The video shows a police officer standing next to a man holding an AK-47 rifle. The text accompanying the video reads: "This is the real face of the Indian police. The real face of Narendra Modi. He is the only man who can save India from terrorists. He is the only man who can save India from AK-47."

However, on further investigation, it was found that the video was fake. The original footage was published in 2016 by a news channel to highlight the violence against farmers in India. The footage was later used by the Indian government to counteract the farmers' protests, and it has been widely circulated on social media platforms.

BJP MP Arun Shankar Pratap Singh has not commented on the video.

SC-APPOINTED PANEL ON LAND LAWS ISSUE

CJI objects to ‘name game’ of selecting expert panel

“How can you have people with reputation like this? They have serious objections to them being called biased.”

The Supreme Court Collegium, headed by Chief Justice of India (CJI) NV Ramana, has rejected the request of the government to name Justice DY Chandrachud as the head of the panel of experts to examine land laws. The Collegium has also objected to the idea of naming any particular person as the head of the panel.

The government had earlier suggested Justice Chandrachud as the head of the panel, which would include experts from various fields such as agriculture, law, and economics. The government had said that the panel would be formed by the Collegium and would be headed by the CJI.

However, the Collegium has rejected the idea of naming Justice Chandrachud as the head of the panel and has instead proposed a list of other potential candidates to be considered for the role.

REBELS ASSISTANCE FOR PMAY-G

The Prime Minister of India, Narendra Modi, has condemned the assistance being provided to rebels through the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana - Grameen (PMAY-G), stating that it hinders the efforts to build homes for the poor and disrupts development plans.

In his speech, the Prime Minister highlighted the significant progress made in the implementation of the scheme, noting that over 6 lakh houses have been completed under the programme. He stressed that the government's efforts are focused on improving the living conditions of the poor and ensuring sustainable development.

However, he also pointed out that there have been instances where the assistance provided to rebels is hindering the progress of the scheme. He called upon all stakeholders to ensure that the beneficiaries of the PMAY-G are genuine and not involved in any unlawful activities.

The Prime Minister appealed to the public to contribute to the nation's development by supporting the PMAY-G and other similar initiatives. He said, "We are working towards a better India, and everyone has a role to play. Let us work together to improve the living conditions of the poor and create a better future for generations to come."

In conclusion, the Prime Minister emphasized the importance of unity and cooperation in realizing the vision of a new India. He urged all to remain vigilant and contribute to the nation's development.

Maratha Quota

SC to decide on schedule of hearing pleas on Feb 5

The Supreme Court has fixed February 5 for deciding on the schedule of hearing pleas seeking the implementation of the Maratha quota scheme.

The court has already reserved judgment on a petition filed by the Maharashtra government seeking to implement the scheme, which was recommended by the Maratha Kranti Morcha. The plea sought directions from the court on the implementation of the quota scheme for Maratha community.

Responding to the Maharashtra government's plea, Additional Solicitor General Singh argued that the state has not complied with the orders of the constitutional bench that had reserved judgment. He said, "The state has not implemented the quota scheme as per the orders of the bench." He also mentioned that the state has not filed a status report on the implementation of the quota scheme.

On the other hand, Speaking on behalf of the petitioners, Senior Advocate Prabhat Agarwal submitted that the state has not implemented the scheme as per the orders of the bench. He said, "The state has not taken any steps towards the implementation of the quota scheme as per the orders of the bench." He also mentioned that the state has not filed a status report on the implementation of the quota scheme.

N Korea steps up war on outside influences, cracks down on foreign media, speaking styles

New ‘anti-react ionary thought’ law

JOEY MORGAN JOEY MORGAN

N Korea is preparing to use force in special cases, where foreign influences could be considered a threat to national security, according to a new law that has been passed and is expected to come into effect on March 1.

The law, which is part of a broader crackdown on dissent and foreign influence, was adopted by the country's parliament in July and is seen as a move to tighten control over foreign media and social media.

The law also includes provisions for the government to block foreign websites and social media accounts that are deemed to be promoting anti-government views or foreign influence.

The measure is seen as part of a broader effort to tighten control over foreign media and social media, following the country's decision to sever diplomatic ties with South Korea last year.

Staffurry Jahanzeb to Marine Corps

White House

WASHINGTON — Staffurry Jahanzeb was named to a position at the White House this week.

The appointment comes after Jahanzeb was named to the position of White House senior adviser for national security affairs earlier this month.

Jahanzeb, a former Marine Corps officer, is expected to work on a range of issues including national security and foreign policy.

Jahanzeb’s appointment is seen as a key step in the Biden administration’s efforts to build a more cohesive and collaborative approach to national security.

Jahanzeb is expected to work closely with other members of the White House national security team, including the National Security Council and the Office of the President.

The appointment also comes as the Biden administration continues to work on a strategy to address the ongoing threat posed by China.

The administration has said it will take a comprehensive approach to addressing the threat, which includes sanctions, diplomatic pressure and other measures.

Jahanzeb is expected to play a key role in developing and implementing that strategy.

The way I batted in Sydney sums up my career in an nutshell

CHRISTOPHEL PUJARA

Dravid was my hero, the way I've bat in Sydney sums up my career in an nutshell. We had no chance of winning the game, but the way I played was how I have played throughout my career. I'm not saying it was my best innings, but it was a reflection of how I have always batted.

The way I batted in Sydney was probably the best reflection of my career. I was patient, I had control, I was selective. I knew the wicket was turning and I played accordingly.

The way I batted in Sydney was the best reflection of my career. I was patient, I had control, I was selective. I knew the wicket was turning and I played accordingly. I was happy with the way I batted.

CUMMINS:

We weren't expecting the ball from the Aussies to be turning so much. We thought they were going to spin it a bit more. We were surprised by how much the ball was turning.

The way I batted in Sydney was the best reflection of my career. I was patient, I had control, I was selective. I knew the wicket was turning and I played accordingly.
