India summons envoy, Trudeau reiterates stand on peaceful protests

FARMER PROTESTS

NEW DELHI: Days after Canada Prime Minister Justin Trudeau said his government would not support of protecting farmers, India on Tuesday reiterated its stand on the farming legislation on an emergency motion tabled in the Lok Sabha. The move was prompted by the government's view that the protests were not peaceful and had environmental consequences.

India has offered to talk to Trudeau over the row, which was triggered by the change in the law that made it easier for farmers to transfer land to others. However, the Canadian government has refused to engage with India over the issue so far.

On Tuesday, a member of the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) submitted two private member's motions in the Lok Sabha. The first motion was moved by Jana Sena Party MP Pratap K. Naik and complained against the law. The second motion, moved by BJP MP GVL Narasimha Rao, sought a Supreme Court-monitored probe into the farmers' protests.

Both the motions were referred to the Lok Sabha secretariat for consideration.

The government's move came after a meeting of officials from the Ministry of External Affairs, the Ministry of Agriculture and Farmers Welfare, and the Department of Investment and Company Affairs (DIBC)

HinaDurai, Minister of State for Agriculture and Farmers Welfare, said the government was willing to talk with the Canadian government, but the issue had to be dealt with through diplomatic channels.

"The farmer protests have been going on for almost two months now. The Indian government has taken all possible steps to ensure that the farmers' rights are protected and their interests are safeguarded. However, despite repeated efforts on the part of the Indian government, Canada has been reluctant to engage in dialogue on the issue," she said.

"We have offered to engage in dialogue with the Canadian government, but they have been reluctant to do so. This is a matter of great concern for the Indian government," she added.

"Our government is committed to protecting the rights of farmers and ensuring their interests are safeguarded. We are also committed to maintaining good relations with our neighbors," she said.

"We are willing to engage in dialogue with Canada to resolve the issue, but the onus is on the Canadian government to take the first step," she added.

With inflation continuing to be a worry, Bill leaves rates unchanged, signals policy support to economy will continue

NEW DELHI, December 5, 2020

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) on Thursday announced to maintain status quo at the current policy rate amid rising inflationary pressures in the economy. The central bank has been holding the key interest rate at an all-time low of 4.4 per cent for the past one year. The liquidity support measures by the RBI seem to have marginally brought down the liquidity gap for the banks that have been borrowing from the RBI keeping the actual policy rate between 2.15 and 6.4 per cent for the month of the half year. While the MPC was in the middle to the upper part of the grade, some members, including Urijit Patel, appeared to be worried about the potential stability risks.

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has defined that the MPC expects to maintain its current interest rate at the current financial year, and the committee has taken a very short notice to avert the inflationary pressures of the economy. The MPC is very much concerned about the inflationary risk and the potential stability risks.

MPC members were divided on the direction of policy rates. While some members were in favor of maintaining the same, others were in favor of a hike. However, the MPC maintained the existing policy rates of 4.4 per cent for the fourth quarter. As on- policy rates were kept unchanged, the key policy rate (repo) at the current level.

On November 18, a judicial development took place that reflected the twin concerns of the legal system - the lack of adequate legal framework to deal with terrorism and the failure to recognize the significance of state-sponsored terrorism in Pakistan. The case involved one of the key terrorists in the 2008 Mumbai attacks, Zainab Ansari, who was released from prison on November 17.

The decision by the Supreme Court to release Ansari comes as a setback for India's fight against terrorism. The Supreme Court had earlier ordered the release of Ansari, who was convicted of killing 16 people in the Mumbai attacks in 2008. However, the decision to release Ansari has been criticized by some as a step towards normalization of relations between India and Pakistan.

Lab-grown meat: cleared in Singapore, emerging alternative worldwide

Why is this a big deal?

POOJA PILLAI
WWW.INDIANEXPRESS.COM

This Singapore Food Agency (SFA) approved the sale of a lab-grown chicken interview that took place in the first time cultured chicken meat for human consumption in the world. The product approved by the SFA is grown at Singapore-based hTech Foods and is called “Ovo�icken.”

The product is a laboratory-grown chicken breast that is produced by culturing cells from chicken muse to mature muscle cells in a bioreactor. The process involves growing cells in a nutrient-rich medium and providing them with the necessary nutrients to differentiate and grow into muscle fibers. The resulting meat is then harvested and processed for human consumption. This technology has the potential to reduce the environmental impact of meat production by reducing the need for land, water, and inputs such as antibiotics and hormones.

In the case of Singapore, the lab-grown chicken is being produced by hTech Foods, a startup company founded by Niki Leigh, a former Google employee. The company has been working on developing a scalable process for producing lab-grown chicken and has already produced batches of chicken that are similar in taste and texture to traditional chicken.

Akin to the lab-grown chicken, hMeat is being produced by the Israeli company Future Meat Technologies, which has received $100 million in funding from investors. The company plans to scale up its production and launch products in the coming years.

The lab-grown chicken technology has the potential to disrupt the meat industry and could also have implications for the environmental sustainability of food production. It could provide a solution for the growing demand for meat products while also reducing the environmental impact of traditional meat production.
Coronavirus claims 1.5 mn lives globally

Average of 10,000 deaths daily in the past week alone

SHARNA BHULALAWA & SANGARAMWARAN S

OVER 1.5 million people have lost their lives due to Covid-19 since the pandemic got underway two years ago. The number of fatalities, which rose to 1.5 million on November 25, is expected to rise with the continued spread of the virus in the months ahead.

The World Health Organization (WHO) said over the weekend that the global death toll from Covid-19 reached 1,500,000 people, but that the real number is likely to be much higher.

The death toll surpassed 1.4 million on November 23, meaning that the virus has killed more than 1.5 million people since the pandemic was declared in December 2019.

The pandemic has had a devastating impact on the global economy, with the International Monetary Fund predicting that the global economy will shrink by 4.4 per cent this year.

The virus has also claimed the lives of more than 35 million people around the world, with the UN World Food Programme warning that the pandemic has pushed an additional 140 million people into poverty.

The WHO said that the global death toll from Covid-19 is likely to continue rising as the virus spreads in countries that have been slow to roll out vaccines and where the delta variant has become dominant.

The UN agency noted that the death toll could rise to as high as 2.2 million people by the end of the year, with the number of cases continuing to rise in many countries.

The WHO also warned that the pandemic is far from over, with new variants of the virus continuing to emerge and spread.
