To spur growth & jobs, booster for construction and low-cost housing

On table: more funds for PM Awas; easing of FDI rules in construction development

SUNNY VERMA & SANJIB BARUAH

THE UPDATED Budget is expected to give a special focus to construction and housing and affordable housing as increased activity in these areas has prompted a higher boost to overall demand in the economy because of their forward and backward linkages. Sources said the government plans further liberalisation of foreign direct investment (FDI) regulations for the construction development sector so as to make it more attractive to foreign investors. This comes as a global trend, where a credit-linked subsidy scheme for affordable housing was taken up by China with the objective of increasing urbanisation, thus lowering the number of migrant workers in rural areas during migrant exodus from deepfreeze...

They will create a political process of new leaders and a new political leadership without the symptoms of inflation. That is the pathology of politics in the country today.

SUNNY VERMA

To extend the benefits of the pandemic victims, the need was there to access safe, affordable housing for everyone, then the pandemic showed the way. It further minimized the potential to achieve a new level of housing for the poor. The government should take advantage of this situation to push forward the agenda of housing for all by using these agencies to scare and subdue the farmers and farmers’ organizations from the NIA’s agenda.

Shiv Sena to contest Bengal elections: Raut

The New Indian Express January 18, 2021

Shiv Sena has decided to contest the West Bengal Assembly elections, party leader Sanjay Raut said today.

Shiv Sena National President Sanjay Raut today said the party would contest the forthcoming West Bengal Assembly elections.

"Shiv Sena has decided to contest all the seats in the West Bengal Assembly elections," Raut told PTI. The decision was taken after a meeting of the party's decision-making body, he said.

Raut said the party would contest all the 294 seats in the West Bengal Assembly with the sole objective of making Mamata Banerjee the Opposition leader and restoring the democracy in West Bengal. He said the Sena's decision was in line with the ideological basis of the party of fighting against the oppression of the common man by the state, which is currently being propagated by the TMC government in West Bengal.

"We will contest all the seats with the sole objective of making Mamata Banerjee the Opposition leader and recovering the democracy in West Bengal," Raut said.

Covid-19 vaccination presents an opportunity. Given that many people unknowingly live with slow-onset non-communicable diseases such as diabetes and cancers, and the vaccination programme prioritises those co-morbidities, the strategy can be dovetailed into a screening programme for such NCDS.

WHAT IS 5G AND HOW IS IT ADVANCED TO THIS TECH?

> The high-band spectrum of off-the-shelf mobile devices, almost like ultra fast velocities, is one of the main drivers of 5G networks. It mainly functions in 3 low-frequency bands, mid and high frequency spectrums, all of which may help understand the different 5G situations, besides limitations.

> This particular industry has seen the growth of 5G networks both, on mobile networks and in fixed access networks. The fifth generation of mobile networks is not the third generation of mobile networks, not the fifth generation of mobile networks, but the fifth generation of Internet. The high band spectrum has been deployed for 5G networks.

> In the global market, more than 20 countries have already started building 5G networks on a large scale, and others have plans to deploy 5G in the next decade. In India, the fifth generation of mobile networks is currently at a stage of planning. The government has already announced the auction of the 5G spectrum.

Thakur had played a single Test, Sunday was seen as a short-format specialist but both proved their worth.

DEVENDRA PANDEY

SOME TIME last month, Sheldon Thakur did a deal with the devil. The timing could not have been more perfect.

Winning the toss, his father, former India fast bowler Venkatesh Prasad, had asked son to bat first. The idea was to test Thakur’s nerve. If he could not tackle the tough Australian attack, there would be no risk in batting first. And the wicket was small, with the lid on for the third day.

But Thakur was equal to the task. He batted for 102.3 overs, taking 56 runs, which was the highest individual score for the Mumbaikars. His innings comprised nine fours and three sixes.

From bench to main stage

Thakur’s first-class cricket career was held in check by an ingrown toenail. But the 25-year-old could not get away from cricket. Back then, Australia were the underdogs. It seemed like back to the 80’s. Just like Kim Hughes, another captain would break down. Still, this was Venkatesh Prasad’s chance to show what his son could do.

The game awareness that would sniff out the Australian cricket team, you could see it in the Twenty20 World Cup. Thakur had thought about the possibility of batting first, but in this case, the moment the ball hit the bat, he knew what had to be done.

“People who have watched Washington in the IPL and T20s have the perception that he is an off-spinner who can pick up a wicket. In fact, I would say that he is 70 percent off-spinner,” said Suresh Raina.

Not since Kerala bowler Leander Paes had a fast bowler bagged a hat-trick in a Test for decades and where they looked set to lose. It was adrenaline-fueled fitness that caused coach Mohammad Shami to think that Thakur could be a good wicket-keeper-batsman. His training on slick wickets has paid off.

Thakur was playing on the first day of the second Test at the Gabba. It was one of those days when the sun was shining brightly but the temperature was brought down to 23 degrees Celsius.

Thakur is one of those players who are always looking to improve. He has always been an off-spinner who can bowl right-arm medium pace. The game awareness that would sniff out the Australian cricket team, you could see it in the Twenty20 World Cup. Thakur had thought about the possibility of batting first, but in this case, the moment the ball hit the bat, he knew what had to be done.

SHRIBRAM DEVI

AFTER THE 1976 World Cup win, the Indian team was back to the world stage. It had won a series against Australia and was looking for another. In the match against Sri Lanka, it was a matter of pride for the captain and the team. The game awareness that would sniff out the Australian cricket team, you could see it in the Twenty20 World Cup.
