Judicial review a remedy to prevent abuse of spl powers: Justice Surya Kant

THE EXTENT of delegation of EXPRESS NEWSPAPER>JUDICIAL REVIEW a remedy to prevent causes of concern as it creates a situation if exercised without checks, said Justice Surya Kant on Saturday.

“The remedy should not be to substitute judicial review with that of the Constitution, but to ensure it is properly used,” said Justice Surya Kant in his speech at the launch of the book “The Law of Emergency Power”. He said this remedy should not be used to substitute judicial review with that of the Constitution, but to ensure it is properly used. This, he said, could be achieved by putting in place a mechanism to ensure that it is used as a last resort, with clear guidelines and checks and balances.

Justice Surya Kant said the remedies available in the Constitution have been abused and they should be used as a last resort. The law of emergency, he said, should be used in exceptional situations, and not as a means of controlling the executive.

The Supreme Court, he said, has the power to declare an act or order as unconstitutional, but it should not be used as a substitute for judicial review. The law of emergency, he said, should be used in exceptional situations, and not as a means of controlling the executive.

Shastri and Shastri Vihar, or Prithvi Shaw, two untested batsmen in the national team. A final call on their skill and temperament, based on Dravid’s words, was eventually taken and Vihari would go on to grab his chance. Two years later, it’s no coincidence that the team that scored 160 runs in the opening game in Ongole and had Prithvi Shaw batting at first wicket.

"I haven’t seen Vihari since his junior days," says Paranjpe. "But they are not lying!" He recall one of the many “jumbo” presentations in the dressing room with the likes of Virat Kohli, Hardik Pandya, and Ishant Sharma, to address the team.

"He wasn’t playing for Tamil Nadu state team when I first coached him, but he showed potential," Paranjpe adds. "I had a feeling he would do well one day. So we went to him and gave him his chance."

Shastri also remembers a player who came to him for advice. "He was a very good batsman, but his confidence was low. He wanted to play well, but he didn’t have the confidence to perform."

"That’s all that young players need at that stage. The feeling that yes, this can be done. That’s all they need,“ Shastri says.

"Instead, he has instilled discipline and hard work in his game. The hype around him is just making sure he’s on the right track."

"I haven’t seen Vihari since his junior days. He is very mature, he is confident, he can play under pressure. He can score runs anywhere in the world."

"He would also ask us to rate our own performances. He wanted to know what the team thought of our performances."

"The only advice I gave him was to keep things simple."

I am not concerned with who has gathered. The person, shall I assume, was lucky in the right place at the right time.

I was not concerned about who uttered the words. While it was widely expected that the defense forces would retaliate to the Pulwama attack, no one could have imagined that the words uttered in the presence of a non-government person would be "exact words" to describe the intended reactions.
