EXPERT GROUPS RECOMMEND TO GOVT

Vaccine first-shot list: Frontline staff, those over 50, at risk

KAULAN CHANDRA M

ONE in four COVID-19 deaths worldwide were due to people below the age of 50 years and 12% due to children below 18 years, according to data as of 10 December, 2020. The group of experts stated that "there is growing evidence that people under the age of 50 years are at risk of severe COVID-19 disease, especially those with underlying conditions, and this needs to be factored in to our vaccine strategy."

The Expert Group on COVID-19 Vaccination recommended vaccinating all health workers, and "other essential workers who are exposed to COVID-19 like policemen, and food staff working in hospitals and hotels, and migration workers."

The group further stated that "there is growing evidence that people under the age of 50 years are at risk of severe COVID-19 disease, especially those with underlying conditions, and this needs to be factored in to our vaccine strategy."

"Every single Indian who needs to be vaccinated will be vaccinated," said the group.

GAUTAM NAVLAKHA DENIED NEW SPECTACLES BY TALOJA JAIL

These human considerations... workshops for jailers needed: HC

Shobik gets bail in drugs case, court says charge of financing illicit trade does not apply to him

Showik gets bail in drugs case, court says charge of financing illicit trade does not apply to him

SADAF MODAK
MUMBAI, DECEMBER 8

Anpinet that granted bail to actor Amit Chakraborty’s son Showik Chakravarty in a drugs case had also on Tuesday refused to grant bail to his co-accused Rhea Chakraborty. The conditions of HC bail are that Showik should not travel abroad, produce any evidence that will help in investigating the case, not associate with any drug peddlers, not get in touch with Showik’s associates, not consume drugs, go to live in a boarding house in NCB jurisdiction and not deal in finance of such activity.

The HC also took into account that there was no recovery of drugs being handled or sale of commodity of quantities from a co-accused director not in custody.

The ingredients of Section 27A of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act are not prima facie present in the case, the HC said. And Showik will not be able to monitor the probe as he is not in custody, the HC said.

On December 6, police registered a case under sections 285 (trying to obstruct a public servant from discharging his duty), 354 (assault or obstructing a public servant in the discharge of his duty), 355 (using threat of death or injury to resist public servant in discharge of duty), 356 (assault or obstructing a public servant in the discharge of his duty not amounting to an offence under any other law for the time being in force) and 307 (attempt to commit assault on man with intent to murder).

A Special Court that granted bail to the present applicant as also his father on December 7, 2020, in the same case had also named Showik as an accused. The Special Court had also directed the NCB to produce a report on the cracks inShowik’s flat as well as a report on the source of the crack.

The HC said that prima facie, the act of obstructing the investigation was not committed by Showik.

The Court also took into account that the present applicant as also his father have both been convicted before in drug-related cases and hence they are not likely to obstruct the investigation.

The HC said that prima facie, the said Showik has not been involved in contraband and hence the drug peddling activity which is the subject matter of FIR cannot be attributed to him.

In a similar case, the HC had denied bail to Showik’s father, the actor Amit Chakraborty.

SHOBHRAJ

The special NIA Court had on December 7, 2020, granted bail to the present applicant and his father in a case under Section 124-A of the IPC on the basis of the police report which said that the accused was not involved in any sedition related activity.

The HC had said that while both the accused are not accused in similar case, the investigation progressed in a different manner.

The HC had also said that no arrested were made in the present case.

The HC had also said that no arrested were made in the present case.

SADAF MODAK
MUMBAI, DECEMBER 10

A Western Judicial Sessions Court on Monday rejected the bail application of actor Gautam Navlakha who was in jail for sedition charges. The HC judge also said that Gautam was not competent to move the bail application.

In a affidavit that Gautam had prepared on Monday and which was filed along with his bail application, he had said that he had been in jail since the police got a custodial remand on July 15 for investigation in a sedition case.

A Special Court had in March 2020, granted him bail in the case but the order was quashed by the HC on the ground that Gautam had not been made aware.

On February 1, 2021, the HC had directed the NIA to file a fresh FIR against the accused.

The HC had on February 1 itself, directed the NIA to file a fresh FIR against the accused.

With JDS help, BJP manages Council nod to land reforms Bill

The BJP government in Karnataka has got a council nod to land reforms Bill. The Opposition parties had raised objections but the Council had passed the Bill with the support of the JD(S).

In October 2020, the Bill had been introduced in the Karnataka Legislative Council. The Bill sought to amend the Karnataka Prevention of Acquisition of Agricultural Land By Non-Agricultural Persons Act, 1961, and the Karnataka Land Reforms Act, 1961, which restricted farmland purchases only to agriculturists to get land ownership reforms.

“While the Opposition parties worked to block the Bill, the BJP secured the support of the JD(S) in the council as the three-tier local body elections were underway,” a BJP leader said.

The council passed the Bill with 74 members voting in its favor and 46 members voting against it. The council rejected an amendment, moved by the opposition, that the Governor of Karnataka should notify any additional law.

The council also passed another Bill, the Karnataka Prevention of Acquisition of Agricultural Land By Non-Agricultural Persons Act Amendment Bill, 2020. The amended Bill allows sale of agricultural land to non-agriculturists to any land owning society.

Meanwhile, the BJP had moved a resolution in the council opposition members against the council Chairman, Ashok. The Opposition had demanded that the council be adjourned until the BJP leader came before the House, which the council chairman had rejected.

The BJP had got the council nod after it secured the support of the JD(S). The council had earlier rejected a resolution moved by the Opposition, which was adjourned by the council chairman.

BJP supporters among 20 farmers’ back new laws in meet with Tomar

The National Farmers’ Union (Bharatiya Kisan Sangathan) on Wednesday met Union Agriculture Minister Narendra Singh Tomar for the second time in three months.

The meeting, which was attended by 13 members of the union, was not attended by the National Farmers Union (BKU) or the Swaraj Abhiyan.

The farmers said that they were unanimously resolved to support the three agriculture-related laws passed by the government in September 2020.

A statement released by the farmers on Wednesday said that the BJP government had taken a “provisional and correct step” by passing the laws.

The farmers said that the laws would not only help them to earn more money but would also help the government to achieve its vision of doubling farmers’ income in next five years.

They also expressed their desire for the improvement of the price of their produce and the government’s commitment to increase the minimum support price (MSP) of various crops.

They further stated that they would always be available for discussion with the government on any issues related to farmers or agriculture sector.

However, the farmers also expressed their concern on the issue of free movement of farmers across the state and the government’s decision to introduce new taxes on agricultural produce.

The farmers said that they would continue their protest against the government’s decision to introduce new taxes on agricultural produce until their demands are met.

BJP supporter from the farmers’ body had earlier said that the farmers’ bodies were not at all against the laws but they were against the implementation of the laws.

The farmers also expressed their desire to work with the government to make the laws work for the benefit of farmers.

Oxford vaccine trial results in Lancet: ‘Safe, protects against disease’

The results are the first full peer-reviewed efficacy results to be published for a vaccine, and are based on analysis of a randomised controlled trial involving 17,187 participants in the UK. The study was conducted by the University of Oxford as part of its ongoing work on the COVID-19 pandemic.

The vaccine was shown to be 90% effective in preventing COVID-19, with no serious safety concerns reported. The results are consistent with the findings from the trial conducted in the UK.

The Lancet article outlines the study’s design, methods, and findings, including details of the sample size, participant characteristics, and outcomes. It also provides a discussion of the implications of the results for vaccine development and global public health.

The Lancet article builds on previous reports from the trial, which have been published in the preprint server medRxiv and in The Lancet. These reports have been widely cited and have helped to inform public health decisions around the world.

The Lancet article is an important contribution to the ongoing efforts to control the COVID-19 pandemic. It provides valuable insights into the safety and efficacy of the Oxford vaccine and will help to inform decisions about its deployment in countries around the world.

The Lancet article is available for free online, and can be accessed by anyone with an internet connection. It is a valuable resource for anyone interested in the science of vaccination and the ongoing efforts to control the COVID-19 pandemic.

Emergency approval in India

Three vaccine developers have sought emergency use approval while their candidates are still in trials. India’s regulations provide for ‘accelerated approval’ in special situations. What are the rules?

What is accelerated approval?

Accelerated approval may also be granted to a promising investigational drug in certain circumstances, if the known and potential benefits outweigh the known and potential risk of the vaccine. It may be granted if the subject expert committee finds that sufficient evidence exists to show that the vaccine is likely to have a beneficial effect.

Who can grant accelerated approval?

The drug controller can grant accelerated approval if the subject expert committee has recommended that the drug be allowed to proceed for accelerated approval.

What are the conditions for accelerated approval?

For accelerated approval, it is necessary that the known and potential benefits outweigh the known and potential risk of the vaccine.

Can accelerated approval be granted for vaccines?

Yes, accelerated approval is a provisional measure that allows a vaccine to be introduced into the market while clinical trials are still ongoing.

What are the limitations of accelerated approval?

Accelerated approval is provisional and subject to review. If the vaccine does not meet the expected standards during clinical trials, it may be withdrawn from the market.

What is the difference between accelerated approval and emergency use?

Accelerated approval is a provisional measure that allows a vaccine to be introduced into the market while clinical trials are still ongoing. Emergency use approval is granted when there is no other available vaccine.

What are the outcomes of accelerated approval?

Accelerated approval is provisional and subject to review. If the vaccine does not meet the expected standards during clinical trials, it may be withdrawn from the market.

By using court order on Rashtriya Ekta Manch for political ends, then asking for review, government invites charge of bad faith.

The GOVERNMENT’S petition before the Jammu and Kashmir High Court seeking a review of its Order of September 10 that the Rashtriya Ekta Manch was “illegal, unconstitutional and unauthorised” seeks to stifle the voice of dissent, inasmuch as it challenges the High Court’s interpretation of the provisions of the Jammu and Kashmir State Reorganisation Act, 2019, which vested power to legislate in the domain of race, religion, language, culture and identity to the government and enshrined them in the state’s Constitution.

From the start, the narrative on the charges sought to project that political and civil society figures, including Mahboob Malick, were complicit in creating a political entity that allegedly bypassed the basic constitutional provisions of the state to do “poison the minds of the people” and to “promote hatred” against the interlocutors of the Kashmiris.

While introducing the Swachh Bharat Abhiyan, Prime Minister Narendra Modi had said, “Sanitation workers are compelled to travel some of the most rural and urban places, often offering service for minimum wages and sometimes working in unpleasant conditions. It is a tough job and no one should ignore it.” He also said, “In the Swachh Bharat Abhiyan, the role of women sanitation workers is equally important and respected.”

The system does not discriminate against Indians “view on human and animal excreta”, but rather, it categorises spaces as pure and impure but also differentiates between human waste and other waste, which is not a scientifically correct view.

The central government needs to encourage more remunerative crop-pattens, while addressing farmer anxieties.

In December 1990, Forty Years Ago

While examining the relative merit of government policies, private sector solutions and efforts and civil society initiatives in sanitation, one can’t ignore the role of private sector solutions.

The problem even became murkier when the Supreme Court’s 2016 order compelling the government in federal territories to do away with manual scavenging was overturned in January this year. A writ petition had been filed in the Jammu and Kashmir High Court challenging the 2016 judgment. However, the court declined the plea in October this year.

Brezhnev in India

When the former Soviet Union’s premier, Leonid Brezhnev, made his maiden visit to India in 1974, it created quite a stir in Delhi. A visit that lasted for six days, the Soviet leader was received with all the usual State honor.

Brezhnev was greeted with a twenty-one gun salute at the airport and was accorded a ceremonial reception at Rashtrapati Bhawan. The president, Mr. U. N. Singh, and the prime minister, Indira Gandhi, welcomed the Russian leader, who was accompanied by his wife, Natalya.

Brezhnev held a series of meetings with President Singh and Prime Minister Gandhi, and both leaders agreed on the need to improve the bilateral relationship between the two countries.

However, the visit was overshadowed by the Soviet Union’s invasion of Afghanistan in December 1979. The Soviet leader had to face sharp criticism from Indian leaders over the invasion.

Brezhnev pledged to end the war in Afghanistan and to withdraw its forces. He also expressed a desire to improve relations with India.

The visit paved the way for the establishment of a joint economic commission between India and the Soviet Union.

Brezhnev left Delhi on October 19, 1974, after a six-day visit. He was the first Soviet leader to visit India.

Sloppy visitors lose to Australia in final T20I, despite Kohli's masterclass in chase

BY G. JOHNSON

Independent Olympic Committee's pursuit of urban Olympic sport. The International Olympic Committee's (IOC) push toward urban venues is a natural progression of the Olympic Games, aiming to bring the Olympic spirit closer to the heart of cities around the world. This pursuit has led to the inclusion of new sports and disciplines that cater to urban environments, reflecting a shift in Olympic ideals from the traditional rural settings of the past. The process of inclusion is carefully planned and executed to ensure a seamless transition, preserving the integrity and spirit of the Olympic movement while embracing the dynamic and evolving nature of modern society. Through these efforts, the Olympic Games continue to evolve, remaining relevant and inspiring for a new generation of athletes and fans alike. SPORT

113 LAST time India lost a T20I match was back in 2013. Since then, they had been on a winning streak of 12 matches. But Sunday, they found themselves on the losing side against Australia at the Sydney Cricket Ground, losing by 21 runs. Australia, who were facing their own crisis, were able to script a thrilling comeback after being set a daunting 187. After a poor start and being 75/4 at one stage, they relied on the batting of their middle order to guide them to victory. Nathan Lyon (36* and 36) and Mitchell Starc (50 and 37) were the stage with century-creating efforts, ensuring that whatever losses Australia had faced in the first innings were more than made up for in the second. Starc's 110 was a consistent, unflinching counter-attacking half-century that showed his class, even on the tricky Sydney wicket. After the loss, there was no change in the top four, with India ending on 166/7. Australia's innings was only stopped as it reached 186/7.

Drummond was the highest scorer for Australia with 49. However, the next best was Connor Redmond with 37. England could only manage 132/9 from their innings, with the players struggling to find any rhythm. Despite the loss, the team will be aiming to bounce back in the next match of the series.

Bounces, knuckles and knives: Pucovski's run of conclusions

EXPERTS EXPRESS NO CONCERN

On Sunday, Will Pucovski attempted a layout of Thakur, but was caught behind by the glove of Ali. In their previous meeting, the Victorian batsman had been caught behind by the glove of Ali, but the lbw review was turned down.

The batman, apparently, was caught in a mix-up of calls with his teammate. The Victorian batsman was out for 9, and the groundsman in the deep in the Sydney, India left on 12/1 after an inexperienced 18-year-old batsman didn't play the last match in which he was left out of the middle order.

Lapses galore in fielding

More than the lack of finish in the batting, it was the fielding that let them down. Team India would see the fielders often caught in no-man's land, and would be unable to stop the flow of runs.

Responding to criticism

Windies' bowlers, meantime, seemed to be at a loss as to how to respond to the criticism directed at them. The team will look to improve their bowling in the next match of the series.

John Oxley, a Victorian medical officer, said: "We'll work with it and see how it goes. The science and the medicine side will have to take it from here."

The BCCI will call a meeting of the top cricketers to discuss the situation and take appropriate action.

Slipping on the turf

Australia have been a consistent performer in the T20Is, and their bowling unit has been a major reason for their success. However, they faltered in the first match of the series against India.

The Australian batting was in good form, with the opening partnership of David Warner and Marcus Stoinis giving them a solid start. They scored 72 runs in just 6.2 overs, setting a competitive target of 152 for India to chase.

However, the Australian bowling unit failed to deliver on the day. They were unable to take wickets and ended up conceding too many runs.

India, on the other hand, struggled to chase the target. They were all out for 115 in 19.2 overs, losing by 37 runs.

Concuss the fielding when at mid-off

The fielding waspatchy, with many players dropping catches. The team will need to improve their fielding in the next match of the series.

Football, door knob and whatnot

India have a (mis)field day in the T20Is, but they were not the only team to have a disappointing day. Australia were also in the same boat, with several players失利.

Why haven't Beitar Jerusalem signed Arzavas?

Beitar Jerusalem's decision to sign Arzavas, a well-known Israeli footballer, has been met with a mixed reaction. Some fans have welcomed the move, while others have been critical.

How were Arab players treated at the club?

Several Arab players have been treated in a discriminatory manner at Beitar Jerusalem. This has led to protests and calls for action from the club's owners.
