A billion get booster dose from Brisbane

SANDEEP DWIVEDI
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 19

Brisbane (Queensland) (IDT): India on Wednesday covered almost 11% of the global vaccination drive, as vaccine delivery picked up significantly, especially in states like Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu and Gujarat. More than 63 lakh (63,41,726) people were vaccinated on Wednesday.

The first meeting with farmers will take place on Tuesday, according to a statement by the Ministry of Agriculture. The meeting will be held in New Delhi and will involve representatives of the government and various states. The aim of the meeting is to discuss the current situation of the farmers' protests and to find a way to resolve the issues.

The government has been under pressure to address the farmers' concerns, which include issues related to Minimum Support Price (MSP) and land acquisition. The protests, which have been going on for over a month, have drawn widespread attention and have led to a considerable disruption in the country's agricultural sector.

The government has already taken some steps to address the farmers' demands, such as setting up a committee to examine the issues. However, the farmers have remained steadfast in their demands, and the situation remains tense.

In a related development, the government has announced that it will be setting up a commission to look into the issues related to the farmers' protests. The commission will be chaired by a former Supreme Court judge and will be mandated to submit its report within six months.

The government has also been trying to reduce the intensity of the protests, including by offering financial incentives to the farmers and by setting up special committees to address their concerns. However, the farmers have been reluctant to accept these offers, and the situation remains challenging.

In view of the ongoing situation, it is crucial for all parties to engage in constructive dialogue and work towards finding a solution that is acceptable to all. The government has a responsibility to ensure the well-being of its citizens, and it is essential that it addresses the farmers' concerns in a timely and effective manner.
The former CEO of the Broadcast Committee of India, Partho Dasgupta, was severely ill in jail after falling unconscious last Friday and was taken to Nanavati hospital. Keeping him in custody for 15 days, which was later extended to three months, the court did not provide medical reports of Dasgupta.

In Mumbwa, the police are looking for the mastermind who supplied mephedrone to the accused. They added that there are no reports of mephedrone being traded by anyone other than the mastermind. The police will ask for the evidence at this stage. The court will continue to hear arguments next month. The accused is not entitled to pre-arrest bail, the judge said.

A division bench of Justice S. Hanawar and Justice S. Shalini Joglekar has ordered the NCB to supply the seized mephedrone to the court. The court will continue to hear arguments next month. The accused is not entitled to pre-arrest bail, the judge said.

TRP scan case: Court may pass order on Partho Dasgupta's bail plea today

A Sessions court is set to pass its order on the bail plea of Partho Dasgupta, the former CEO of Maha Movie channel. The case got transferred to the CIU on January 1. The court will decide whether to grant Dasgupta bail or not.

The arguments on his bail plea were concluded with the Mumbai Police objecting to his release.

Referring to the WhatsApp chat, the lawyer for the accused, Girish Garg, said it was a continues conversation with the witness. He added that the conversation was about the witness's health. The witness had complained of health issues. The lawyer also said that the witness had not been repeatedly interrogated.

On January 13, extending the provisional charge sheet in the case, the court had asked the National Investigation Agency and the insurance authorities to consider the possibility of taking action against the accused.

Garg also said that the witness had not been repeatedly interrogated. He added that the witness had complained of health issues.

Car loan racket busted, seven arrested

Mumbai: With the arrest of seven persons on Tuesday for operating a loan racket, in which several bank employees were allegedly found to have defrauded unsecured car loan seekers, the Mumbai Police has made yet another significant arrest to curb the proliferation of such frauds.

The police, who arrested the accused, identified as Pradeep Moghe, Jyoti Moghe, Piyush Chaudhary, Neeraj Chaudhary, Surinder Chaudhary, Amit Chaudhary and Anurag Chaudhary, nabbed them at their residence in Thane.

The police have seized six high-end vehicles, including a BMW M6, two Mercedes Benz C Class, one Audi A4 and one Audi Q5. These vehicles were seized from the accused and are being impounded at a parking yard.

White collar offences more serious than muder, dacity: HC in GST evasion case

Mumbai: High Court has observed that white collar offences like murder and dacity are more serious than muder and dacity, and directed the authorities to consider it while imposing sentence on accused.

A three-judge Bench, headed by Justice Anil Sathaye, also directed the authorities to consider it while imposing sentence on accused.

The Bench said that the offence of murder is more serious than muder, and dacity is more serious than dacity.

Oath-taking, parade and poetry: how US President inaugurations have evolved over the centuries

The inauguration of US Presidents has evolved over the decades, from a modest ceremony to a grand spectacle. Here are some key moments:

- 1789: George Washington took his oath of office on a family Bible on the porch of the then-President’s House (now the White House). He said his famous “I cannot dissemble a sentiment of the most lively gratitude.”
- 1889: Benjamin Harrison’s inauguration included the first use of the national anthem, “Hail to the Chief.”
- 1937: Franklin D. Roosevelt, who had served as a speechwriter, delivered his own inaugural address. He unveiled the Four Freedoms: freedom of speech and expression, freedom of worship, freedom from want, and freedom from fear.
- 1961: John F. Kennedy’s inaugural address included a call for young people to “Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country.”
- 2009: Barack Obama’s inaugural address focused on change, with phrases like “Let us begin,” “We the people,” and “We must act.”

In modern times, inaugurations have become more elaborate, with millions of dollars spent on security, logistics, and entertainment. Yet, the core of the event remains the same: the transition of power from one administration to another, under the watchful eye of the American people. The 2021 inauguration was particularly significant, with Joe Biden and Kamala Harris becoming the first Black president and vice president, respectively.

As we look back on these historical moments, we can see how far we’ve come and how far we have to go in ensuring that the office of the President is one of service and dedication to the people of the United States.
For not good of the health of society for an agitation to take root long too... both sides must work to find a solution

Rahul: Assault on middle class, not only on farmers

Prime Minister Narendra Modi’s decision to hold an all-party meeting to resolve the farm law protests on Tuesday is an indication of the seriousness with which the government looks at the issue. It was a worthwhile exercise, providing a sense of closure to the protests that have raged on for nearly two months. The meeting, however, also highlighted the need for a more proactive approach from the government in dealing with the farmers’ agitation.

The Congress party has been largely muted in its response to the protests, and it is clear that the tone and tenor of the meeting were too soft. The Congress party leaders, including Rahul Gandhi, were more or less in agreement with the government’s position on the laws.

While the Prime Minister and the opposition leaders agreed on the need for dialogue, there was a lack of clarity on the core issues. The government needs to be more forthcoming in its response to the farmers’ demands, which include repeal of the three farm laws, withdrawal of the agitations, and a promise of compensation for those who have been affected by the lockdown.

The government must also be mindful of the fact that the country is facing a crisis in the midst of the pandemic. The economy is struggling, and the farmers’ protests have added to the already grim situation. The government must act with urgency and decisiveness to address the farmers’ demands and bring about a peaceful resolution to the crisis.

The study of Chinese history in India is in crisis. Absence of meaningful research and current misguided push to disengage from China will not serve our goal, understand and respond to its challenge.

KAMA J. BHUPURKAR

Perpetual, monotonous and onerous, the life of an Indophile, the study of Chinese history and culture is often deemed as a task of a dull, tedious nature. The study is certainly one of the contentious issues in Indian society due to the ongoing border issue with China. The Indian public might feel its interest towards Chinese history as a hobby or a passion is quite limited, but the same cannot be said about their passion for learning about the history of their own country.

It is not merely the lack of interest in Chinese history that is a problem. There is a certain lack of understanding towards China and its history, which is a common theme in the contemporary world. It is not uncommon to hear the term "anti-Chinese" or "anti-Indian" in certain conversations, and it is important to recognize this as a symptom of a larger problem.

The study of Chinese history should be viewed as an opportunity to understand and learn from a country that shares a long history and culture with India. It is crucial to understand the origins of Buddhism, which is an integral part of Indian culture, and the influence of Chinese culture on India.

The importance of Chinese history in India cannot be overstated, and it is essential to address the issue of the crisis in the study of Chinese history. Efforts should be made to revitalize the study of Chinese history in India, and it is time for Indian scholars, politicians, and the general public to take an active interest in this field.

Chinay's criticism of Kinston's runs on this idea because it is a questionable and largely plagiarised piece of secondary scholarship. Had he consulted other studies on this topic, he would have realized that the Taga rebellion, a significant event that resulted in the abdication of King Harshavarman III, was not "apocryphal in terms of its scale and significance." In fact, it was a significant event that resulted in the abdication of the Indian official who supposedlyinitiated the military confrontation.

RERA has placed interested homebuyers at the heart of the real estate sector, offering protection in some states.

BJP more dangerous than Maoists: Mamata

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 19

Mamata Banerjee has said that the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) is more dangerous than Maoists.

"You said it for the BJP in the last election, where is the proof, Mrs. Banerjee? You have gone silent when it comes to the BJP and Shah."

Mamata Banerjee, in a speech in west Bengal, said the party is more dangerous than Maoists.

"You have been silent when the BJP has been targeting people and breaking up homes."

"You have not taken any action against them."

New challenge: Mutations rise along with cases

WASHINGTON: The race to contain the coronavirus in the United States has hit a new challenge as the virus begins to spread faster, with signs of more dangerous strains already appearing. According to data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the proportion of strains of the virus classified as of unknown origin increased from 2% the week before to 12% this week. This could be the result of new mutations, or a lack of testing to confirm the virus’s origin.

The government’s collapse comes a week after a vote in the country’s National Assembly, which is currently controlled by a coalition of the conservative People Power Party and the center-left People’s Party. The vote was held on January 14 and was expected to bring down the government because of the opposition’s electoral base.

Incest scandal off a new #MeToo movement

(REUTERS) NEW YORK - JANUARY 18: The #MeToo movement, which began as a movement against sexual harassment, has evolved into a broader cultural movement against all forms of abuse. The movement has sparked a wave of investigations and allegations of sexual misconduct, and has led to the resignation of high-profile figures in Hollywood and politics. The movement has also been met with resistance from some who argue that it is too broad and that it is based on unproven allegations.

43 years in jail for insulting royals

BANGKOK: A Thai court has sentenced a woman to 43 years in jail for insulting the royals, in a case that has stoked concerns about freedom of expression in the country. The woman, named only as K, was arrested in 2014 for posting online comments critical of the monarchy. She was convicted in 2016 and sentenced to 15 years in jail, but was released on bail in 2017. The case was brought by the Royal Thai Police, which has been accused of using the law to suppress free speech.

Decision made public after 5 years

The UK's government has made public the results of an inquiry into the 2015-2016 immigration crisis, after five years of delays. The inquiry was launched in 2015 by then-Prime Minister Theresa May, who said an official review was needed to ensure that the lessons of the crisis were learned. The report, which was expected to be published in 2016, was delayed due to the ongoing investigation into the so-called Windrush scandal, which saw thousands of EU citizens wrongly deported from the UK.

Russia warns over Turkey's actions

MOSCOW, JANUARY 19

Russia has warned Turkey against continuing its actions in the region, after the Turkish military deployed troops to Nagorno-Karabakh in response to the ongoing conflict between Armenia and Azerbaijan.

In the current market, we are observing a dynamic landscape that needs to be managed with precision. The market volatility is heightened due to a combination of macroeconomic factors and geopolitical tensions. As investors navigate this complex environment, it is crucial to adopt a strategic approach that balances risk assessment with opportunities for growth. Here are some key considerations for managing investments today:

1. Risk Management: With increased market volatility, managing risk is paramount. This includes diversification across asset classes, ensuring adequate risk buffers, and adjusting asset allocations based on changing market conditions.

2. In-depth Analysis: Conducting thorough research and analysis of individual companies and sectors can help identify potential opportunities. This involves staying informed about the latest news, market trends, and company developments.

3. Flexible Strategies: Adopting flexible investment strategies allows for strategic reallocations in response to market changes. This can include tactical asset allocation, dynamic indexing, and trend Following.

4. Diversification: Diversifying investments across different sectors, regions, and asset classes can help mitigate risks and enhance the potential for returns.

5. Tailored Solutions: Personalized investment solutions that align with specific investor goals, risk tolerance, and time horizons can be especially effective in achieving desired outcomes.

6. Continuous Learning: Staying informed and continuously learning about the latest market developments, investment strategies, and risk management techniques is crucial for success in today’s market environment.

By following these strategies, investors can better navigate the current market landscape and make informed decisions that align with their long-term investment objectives. It is essential to consult with financial advisors to tailor strategies to individual circumstances and preferences.

Mets’ general managers fired over harassment of female reporter

NEW YORK TIMES

“Mets general manager Jared Porter was fired Monday afterESPN reported that he had sent more than 60 unsolicited text messages and photos of himself to a female baseball reporter, including one of a penis, that failed to meet the Mets’s standards for professional conduct.
“This is a major failure on the part of the Mets,” team owner Jeffrey Loria said in a statement. “We have immediately suspended Jared Porter and will begin an investigation into these matters.”

The Mets announced the move on Twitter, where it said it was “disappointed” to learn of the reports. The team has not commented on the reports themselves, although a Mets spokesman said Monday that the team had asked Porter to resign.

This is the latest in a series of sexual misconduct scandals that have engulfed Major League Baseball. Other general managers have also been accused of harassment, including Craig

MacArthur, who was fired by the Minnesota Twins in 2017, and the New York Yankees in

Sandeep

One of the most memorable comebacks was against Australia in Sydney in 2018. It was a series that Shastri believed would define his legacy. He said that the series was a testament to his coaching philosophy. Shastri felt that the team's performance in the series was a result of his approach to the game. He also said that the series was a reminder of his own journey as a player, and how he had learned to overcome challenges.

In the lead-up to the series, Shastri had been clear in his approach. He knew that the team needed to be all-out for victory, and that they could not afford to be complacent. He had been meticulous in his planning, and had ensured that the team was well-prepared for the series.

Shastri had been a key figure in India's cricket team for many years. He had been a member of the team that won the 1983 World Cup, and had gone on to become a successful captain. He had been instrumental in the team's success in the following years, and had helped turn India into one of the world's best teams.

Just before Pant combatted, he had made a message to Lyon. "Shastri has kept fielders at the boundary. Lyon is an attacking bowler, try and single and twice if you want. You can catch the new ball too, but if you bowl short, you will regret it on this track." With that in effect, Pant had been preparing for a battle, and had been focused on his role as the team's first-choice batsman.

For a few years now, Shastri has been the coach of the Indian cricket team. He is best known for his know-how and his ability to read the game. He is a natural leader, and his team has been known to follow him.
