Covid impact: Dal lake set to get a water ambulance, on a shikara
A YEAR after taking over the reins as the state General Secretary, Shiv Sena’s second-in-command, Hemant Bhuse, visited the Mantralaya amid reports that the BJP was trying to accommodate him well into the BJP’s CM’s camp? Scindiaji’s people have been accommodated at the very end, we were on the losing side. But I don’t think such statements are helpful. A campaign can be waged many ways; it will not be limited only by what’s written or what’s said. If you’re worried about the party, then you must work inside the party. But it’s not like this. There has been some delay because of Covid-19 which has led to a collective decision, which may not be taken for the better. But the party will fight the elections and win.

Our government, after all, was formed with the help of 68,000 workers. It was only after we had a list of our workers that we became a party. Our structure on the ground is strong, and we have a team of 68,000 leaders working tirelessly. Our next step is to enforce party discipline and not an emotional one. The organisational work will show the true face of the party. There was some delay because of the pandemic, but we have a plan. There is only a delay, not a failure.

According to the chart, the BNMP has 40 seats, the NCP has 15, and the MNS has 13. The remaining seats are distributed among other parties. The BNMP has the most seats among the parties, but the MNS has the most seats among the regional parties. The MNS has the most seats in the Lok Sabha, while the BNMP has the most seats in the Rajya Sabha.

From the survey, it is clear that the BNMP has a significant support base in the state, and the MNS has a strong presence in the state. The NCP has a moderate support base in the state. The other parties have a small support base in the state. The BNMP has a clear lead in the state, and the MNS has a strong presence in the state. The NCP has a moderate support base in the state. The other parties have a small support base in the state.

Majority of MPs have not followed through with their top priority promises

SANDESH ASHAR

The Lok Sabha has more than 800 members — the word top priority means something different to everyone. After six months into the 16th Lok Sabha, the MPs have not only failed to deliver on their promises, but have been more content with mindless spending and pork-barrel politics. The top priority promises made by the six Lok Sabha have seen only a meagre fraction being fulfilled by the end of the current year. The AISF has compiled a list of MPs and their top priority promises to see how much of their promises have been fulfilled.

Maharashtra's Kinjal Patel is facing flak for not marrying his estranged wife, whom he had allegedly separated from her, in the most public way. While he was married to her, she was pregnant and they had planned to have a baby. But within days of his marriage, the woman claimed that she was pregnant with his child and the couple decided to marry. The couple was married in a private ceremony and the woman had an abortion. The couple was then arrested under the Medical Termination of Pregnancy Act.

How is a complaint supposed to be handled when the same complaint is made by the same person to the same authority multiple times? And how can the same complaint be handled differently each time? This is a common problem in the Indian justice system, where the same complaint is often handled differently each time.

Year on, withdrawal of Pathalgadi cases crawls; CM Soren says will look into it
RANCHI, DECEMBER 20
Almost a year later, the government has started the process of withdrawal of cases against government officials and officials of government bodies for “completing withdrawal.”

Avighna Anand, a 76-year-old Thakura Munda, was booked for sedition in 20 June last year when he was arrested at the Ranchi airport. The charges against him include sedition (Section 124A of IPC), criminal intimidation (Section 505), and conspiracy.

The third case was filed in the case of a group of farmers from Bagadi of Khunti district who had prepared the “Kargil tricolor” flag in 2017. Last year, the police registered a case under Section 153A of IPC on the charges of inciting religious hatred and promoting enmity between different religious communities.

The probe found that the flag was prepared by the group of farmers as a gesture of support to the Indian Army for their role in the Kargil conflict.

Avighna Anand was also booked under Section 153A of IPC.

Chief Minister Hemant Soren had promised withdrawal of cases on August 15, 2020, on the occasion of the 74th Independence Day.

Chief Minister’s promise:
Chief Minister Hemant Soren had made the promise to withdraw the cases against officials and officials of government bodies.

The withdrawal of cases is a step towards the implementation of the Chief Minister’s “Pathalgadi” scheme, which was introduced in the district to promote local governance and stop the misuse of government funds.

Apologies will be issued: The withdrawal of cases is a step towards the implementation of the Chief Minister’s “Pathalgadi” scheme, which was introduced in the district to promote local governance and stop the misuse of government funds.

Apologies will be issued to farmers who had prepared the flag in 2017 and to the group of farmers who had prepared the flag in 2018.

SANTANU CHOWDHURY

NEW DELHI: Home Minister Amit Shah today said the government would consider implementing the CAA after the COVID-19 vaccination starts.

Shah, who had a virtual meeting with the leaders of the Council of 20 participating countries of the European Union in the morning, said the home ministry would take up the “attack” responsibility to investigate its lapses.

The 36th CAS meeting of the EU is to be held in an integrated manner in New Delhi from October 3 to 5.

Shah, who addressed the meeting in his virtual capacity, said the meeting took place at a critical time when the world is recovering from the COVID-19 pandemic.

The meeting is being held under the presidency of the EU Council and the Council of the EU.

The conference is being held in a hybrid format.

The meeting is expected to focus on the implementation of the CAA and India’s efforts to achieve the SDGs.

Senior leaders say Pak, China involved… if we look at farmers with suspicion, it will hurt the community

The Jharkhand CM says Oppn must examine “politics in small pockets” to take on BJP, denies special treatment to Lalu Prasad, says GST “has broken the back of state governments” and talks of rebudding trust with industry players to generate jobs in state. The session was moderated by Deputy Editor Associate Manoj C G

MINCEG: What has been the last one year as chief minister of Jharkhand been like for you? What were some of the challenges that you faced?

We came into power amidst a lot of en-thusiasm, and we were very happy about the fact that the lock- down has been lifted and people have returned to the markets. We have been fighting a long battle against corona virus which has been affecting the entire state. Now that the lockdown has been lifted, we need to ensure that there is no complacency and that people follow the safety protocols.

MINCEG: Many of the Opposition parties have raised questions about the Centre’s measures during the lockdown. What was your point of interaction with the Centre been during these months?

Unfortunately, I have to say that the Centre’s measures have not been adequate. We have been fighting a battle against corona virus which has been affecting the entire state. Now that the lockdown has been lifted, we need to ensure that there is no complacency and that people follow the safety protocols.

MINCEG: What was the Centre’s guidance on migrant workers?

The Centre was among the first that was keen to look into the problem of migrant workers. In many cases, migrants were seen returning to their homes with nothing to eat. The Centre did try to help them in whatever way that was possible.

MINCEG: What was the Centre’s guidance on migrants who found themselves stranded in urban areas?

The Centre’s guidelines were that migrants should find work in urban areas that were nearby. The Centre also provided financial assistance to those who were stranded. It was a difficult time for many of them, and the Centre did try to help in whatever way that was possible.

MINCEG: Could you mention that state governments did not get enough oxygen concentrators, remote oxygen concentrators, ventilators, etc. to meet the demand?

In fact, the Centre had given us many oxygen concentrators, remote oxygen concentrators, ventilators, etc. to meet the demand. We have also been able to procure these items ourselves.

MINCEG: In such times of economic crises, role of state governments must be looked into.

In such times of economic crises, the role of the Centre must be looked into. The Centre must also take responsibility for providing the necessary support to the states. The Centre must take a lead role in providing the necessary support to the states.

ABHISHEK ANGAD: What are you doing to ensure employment on the migrant workers who have returned to the state?

We have been ensuring that the migrant workers are provided with employment opportunities. We have been conducting drives to help them find work. We have also been providing them with training and skill development programs.

ABHISHEK ANGAD: You recently conducted review meetings with various government departments. Why did you feel the need to do that, and what were the outcomes?

The review meetings were conducted to assess the performance of various government departments and to ensure that they are providing the necessary support to the people. The review meetings were conducted to ensure that the government is providing the necessary support to the people.

ABHISHEK ANGAD: It has been reported that there have been deaths due to starvation in Bokaro. Why has this happened?

Unfortunately, I have to say that there have been deaths due to starvation in Bokaro. We have been working on this issue and have taken steps to ensure that such incidents do not happen again. We have been providing food to the people and have also been providing medical aid to those who are in need.

ABHISHEK ANGAD: It has been reported that the Centre is yet to give the vaccine to the Jharkhand government. What would you say about this?

The Centre has been giving the vaccine to the Jharkhand government. We have been very happy about the fact that the Centre is giving the vaccine to the Jharkhand government. We have been working on this issue and have taken steps to ensure that the vaccine is distributed evenly.

ABHISHEK ANGAD: What would you say about the GST which has been imposed on the state?

The GST has been imposed on the state, and we are working on this issue. We are working on this issue and have taken steps to ensure that the GST is imposed in a fair manner.

ABHISHEK ANGAD: What would you say about the Centre’s measures during the lockdown?

We have criticized the Centre’s measures during the lockdown. We have been working on this issue and have taken steps to ensure that the Centre is providing the necessary support to the people.

ABHISHEK ANGAD: What are the Centre’s measures during the lockdown?

Coronavirus spike protein imaged in its natural state

The research team looked at a similar molecule called staphylococcal superantigen (SSA), which causes severe diseases in humans and animals. They found that the spike protein, which plays an important role in the interaction of the virus with cells, is responsible for causing these diseases. The spike protein is also shown to be critical in the development of vaccines against COVID-19.

TMC has to blame itself for losing its leaders, walking into the trap of BJP's predatory politics.

O ver the past few days, TMC has lost three of its prominent leaders. Jnaneshwar Mishra, the leader of the party in West Bengal, passed away on November 27. The party's chief minister in Bengal, Mamata Banerjee, announced his death on Twitter. Banerjee said, “We are all deep in mourning for the loss of Mr. Jnaneshwar Mishra. His contribution to the party and to the state will be remembered forever. His guidance and wisdom will be missed.”

Mishra had a long and distinguished career in politics. He was a member of the Lok Sabha, representing the late TMC leader Jyoti Basu, for many years. He was also a member of the Rajya Sabha, representing West Bengal. Mishra was known for his articulate and principled speeches, which earned him the nickname “Jnan” (knowledge) in Bengali. He was a key figure in the formation of the Trinamool Congress, a political party that was founded in 1997.

Mishra's death is a major blow to the TMC, which has been struggling to maintain its grip on power in West Bengal. The party has been out of power in the state for two years, and its leaders have been under increasing pressure from the opposition and the media. The BJP, which has been the main beneficiary of this political realignment, has been able to capitalize on the TMC's internal divisions.

The BJP has long been known for its predatory politics, which it has used to undermine its political rivals. The party has a history of targeting and manipulating leaders, and it has been known to use this tactic to gain an advantage in elections. The TMC's loss of leaders is a clear example of this predatory politics.

In recent years, the TMC has been under increasing pressure from the BJP. The party has been able to mobilize its supporters and use its resources to undermine the TMC's leaders. The BJP has also been able to use its connections with the media to spread false stories and discredit the TMC's leaders.

The TMC's loss of leaders is a clear sign of the challenges it faces. The party will need to come up with a strategy to address these challenges and regain its footing in West Bengal. It will need to focus on rebuilding its base and appealing to a wider range of voters.

The food security bargain

WTO rulebook must evolve to support food security and rural livelihoods in developing countries, especially in light of the Covid shock. India must take lead in pushing for this change

DERUGA SHAKTI NAGPAL

IT IS STATED that without proper implementation, a policy is only a well-intentioned dream. India’s food security policy will fail to benefit the poor unless and until the policy is properly implemented. This is because the Economist magazine has stated that ‘India’s food security policy will fail to benefit the poor unless and until the policy is properly implemented.’

However, the implementation is not just a question of implementing a policy. It is also a question of ensuring that the policy is implemented in such a way that it benefits the poor. In fact, the implementation of the policy is the key to its success.

The policy that is being implemented is the Food Security Act, 2013 (FSA). The FSA aims to ensure food security to all citizens of India. It provides for the supply of food grains at subsidised prices to the poor and vulnerable groups of the society. However, the implementation of the FSA has been fraught with several issues.

The first issue is the lack of proper training and awareness among the beneficiaries. The beneficiaries are not aware of their rights and responsibilities under the FSA. This has led to a situation where the beneficiaries are not getting the benefits of the scheme.

The second issue is the lack of proper monitoring and evaluation of the implementation of the FSA. The monitoring and evaluation of the implementation of the FSA is essential to ensure that the policy is being implemented in the right way.

The third issue is the lack of proper enforcement of the FSA. The enforcement of the FSA is essential to ensure that the policy is being implemented in the right way.

The fourth issue is the lack of proper consultation with the stakeholders. The stakeholders are not being consulted about the implementation of the FSA. This has led to a situation where the stakeholders are not getting their voices heard.

The fifth issue is the lack of proper coordination among the different agencies involved in the implementation of the FSA. The different agencies are not coordinating with each other to ensure that the policy is being implemented in the right way.

The sixth issue is the lack of proper accountability. The beneficiaries are not getting proper accountability for the implementation of the FSA. This has led to a situation where the beneficiaries are not getting the benefits of the scheme.

In conclusion, the implementation of the Food Security Act, 2013 (FSA) is essential to ensure food security to all citizens of India. However, the implementation of the FSA is fraught with several issues. The government needs to address these issues in order to ensure that the policy is being implemented in the right way.

THE INDIAN EXPRESS, MONDAY, DECEMBER 21, 2020

Dhamanipri Narthis

India’s food subsidy notification in March 2020 to the WTO’s committee on agriculture brought the topic of procurement under public food security programmes to the attention of trade officials. This submission indicated that India had breached its agreed ceiling on procurement-related support to the tune of Rs 17,960 crore for the calendar year 2018-19. The ceiling is set at 10 per cent of the value of production under the World Trade Organisation (WTO) rules.

Despite India’s food subsidy notification in March 2020 to the WTO’s committee on agriculture bringing the topic of procurement under public food security programmes to the attention of trade officials, the WTO report was silent on the issue. The report failed to make it clear that the implementation of the policy is the key to its success.

In this regard, the Indian Express (December 30) noted that India is yet to implement the Food Security Act, 2013 (FSA). The FSA aims to ensure food security to all citizens of India. It provides for the supply of food grains at subsidised prices to the poor and vulnerable groups of the society.

However, the implementation of the FSA has been fraught with several issues. The issues are related to the lack of proper consultation with the stakeholders, the lack of proper coordination among the different agencies involved in the implementation of the FSA, the lack of proper accountability, and the lack of proper monitoring and evaluation of the implementation of the FSA.

US lawmakers resolve federal dispute, race to close Covid stimulus deal

The New York Times

WASHINGTON (December 21) – US lawmakers are racing to complete a $900 billion coronavirus stimulus bill, a key piece of legislation that would provide much-needed economic relief to Americans struggling during a pandemic that has upended their lives. The bill would include aid for state and local governments, expanded unemployment benefits, and support for small businesses. The Senate is expected to vote on the bill today, with a passage vote scheduled for tomorrow. If passed, the bill would provide a significant boost to the struggling economy and help keep families afloat during the pandemic. The legislation was initially introduced by Steve Mnuchin, the Treasury Secretary, and House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, but negotiations between the two parties have been difficult. The Senate is expected to vote on the bill today, with a passage vote scheduled for tomorrow. If passed, the bill would provide significant relief to Americans struggling during the pandemic.

Mumbai City FC coasted to a 6-0 victory over the Indian Arrows, with the team's attacking prowess on full display. A standout performance by striker Josh Hazlewood, who demonstrated his goal-scoring abilities, was key in the victory. The forward has now scored a total of 14 goals in the ISL this season, helping his team solidify their place at the top of the table.

Hazlewood's impact was evident from the start, as he scored three goals in the first half. His first strike came from a short-range shot after a precise pass from teammate Diego Forlani. His second goal was a header from a corner kick, and his third was a penalty kick. In the second half, Hazlewood completed his hat-trick with a shot from outside the box after a defensive mistake by the Indian Arrows' defense.

In an interview after the match, Hazlewood credited his teammates for his performance. "I'm just happy to be on the scoresheet today," he said. "But the main focus was to get the win and continue our good form." Coach Peter Kennaugh was also pleased with his team's performance. "Josh played brilliantly," he said. "The rest of the team also contributed well, and we deserved the win.

Hazlewood's performance has been a shining light for Mumbai City FC this season. His goals have been crucial in pushing the team towards the top of the table, and his form has been a testament to the hard work and dedication put in by the team. As the season progresses, Hazlewood and his teammates will continue to work hard to maintain their position at the top and aim for a successful ISL campaign.
