What began with a student from Wuhu: glimmer at end of one-year Covid tunnel

BY AMITH SRIDHARA
FEBRUARY 1

BY THE TIME India decided to impose a nationwide lockdown on March 25, 2020, the epidemic had spread to about 20 countries, and more than 350 million people had already died due to the disease.

A 20-year-old Wuhu native, who was studying medicine in Wuhu, China, had noticed that his fellow residents, including Wuhu residents studying in India, would sometimes emerge from a “short” quarantine after a few days, without any questions asked.

What was needed was a fresh home collection.

President’s address

The Indian Express, Mumbai, November 15, 2021

The President’s address, which reflects the government’s policies, has been released today. The President mentioned several initiatives that have been implemented recently. He also highlighted the challenges faced by the country and the steps taken to overcome them.

However, many opposition leaders see the address as a propaganda exercise. They believe that the government has not done enough to address the issues faced by the people.

1. The President mentioned the **
2. The President also talked about the **
3. Furthermore, he spoke about the  Opposition leaders criticized the address, saying it was a bid to boost the government’s image. They emphasized the need for concrete action to address the issues faced by the people.

1. Opposition leader X said, "The address is nothing but a bid to hide the government’s failures. It is time for real action to address the people’s needs."
2. Leader Y added, "We demand concrete action from the government to address the pressing issues faced by the people."

Despite the criticism, the address is expected to be a boost for the government’s image. The President’s speech will be widely covered in the media, and the government is likely to receive positive feedback on its policies.

Huge dip in monsoon ailments cases in 2020, courtesy Covid-19 hygiene measures

The monsoon-driven health traversals in Mumbai have been unprecedented. On one hand, the government’s response to the Covid-19 pandemic was quick and effective with lockdown measures in place, which helped in the containment of the virus. On the other hand, the monsoon season, which usually sees a spike in water-borne diseases like typhoid and dengue, was surprisingly unaffected.

The year 2020 started off with a series of lockdowns across the country due to the Covid-19 pandemic. The lockdown measures were enforced to control the spread of the virus and prevent further transmission. As a result, the usual activities that contribute to the spread of water-borne diseases were curtailed, leading to a significant decrease in the number of cases.

The data from the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) shows a 90% decline in both dengue and typhoid cases in 2020 compared to 2019. The number of typhoid cases dropped from 2,658 in 2019 to 254 in 2020, a 90.2% decrease. Similarly, the number of dengue cases dropped from 3,156 in 2019 to 329 in 2020, a 87.6% decrease.

The state government had also started spraying disinfectants in public places and implementing strict hygiene protocols to prevent the spread of diseases. The BMC has also been regularising inspections of public spaces to ensure that hygiene norms are being followed.

The data also shows a significant drop in the number of cases of water-borne infections like typhoid and hepatitis, with only 47 cases reported in September and 55 cases in October against 125 cases in the same period in 2019.

The success of these measures can be attributed to the lockdown and the strict adherence to hygiene protocols. The government has also been regularly monitoring the situation and taking necessary steps to prevent the spread of diseases.

However, it is important to note that the situation is still not fully under control and the government needs to continue its efforts to prevent any resurgence of the virus. The vaccination drive is also an important step towards containing the spread of the virus.

Second bail plea of Nagpada building owner rejected

The Additional Municipal Court has rejected the second bail plea of the Nagpada building owner, who was arrested for molesting a mentally challenged woman.

The arrest was made after a complaint was filed by the victim’s sister, who said that the accused had tried to molest her sister multiple times. The accused was arrested under Section 376 (rape) and Section 379 (attempt to rape) of the Indian Penal Code.

The court rejected the bail plea, saying that the accused had a motive to tamper with evidence and was likely to continue molesting the victim if released on bail.

The case is being heard in the Additional Municipal Court and the court has issued directions to the police to ensure the safety of the victim.

The case has been referred to the competent authority for further investigation.

Farmers’ agitation will spread unless resolved: Rahul

Prime Minister Narendra Modi arrives at Parliament House on Friday.

The Centre should look at the farmers’ concerns seriously and try to resolve the issues. The farmers have been protesting for more than 100 days and their demands have not been met. The agitation has now spread from the farmers to other segments of the country. The Prime Minister should come out with a clear and decisive message to the farmers and the country. The Centre has not been able to resolve the farmers’ demands and it is high time that the Centre takes a firm stand on the issue.

The Centre has decided to begin vaccinating frontline workers in the next week, a senior health ministry official said. The country has around 2.92 crore frontline workers, from the health sector to those in law enforcement, who fall under the Central Industrial Safety (CIS) scheme.

“Deo, which is the scheme name, has already been released from the central pool,” the official said, adding that 2.92 crore frontline workers are covered under the scheme.

The Centre has already identified 500 districts in the country which will be the focal point for the vaccination drive, officials said.

NEW DELHI, JANUARY 29, 2021

India has crossed 2.92 crore infections due to the Covid-19 pandemic and the country is likely to cross the 5 lakh mark in total vaccination by today, the health ministry official said.

“Today we have sufficient quantities of vaccine available. We will cross the 5 lakh mark. We will be able to vaccinate 10-15 lakh people per day,” the health ministry official said.

Economic survey suggests revision of CIP to reduce food subsidy bill

EXPRESSION NEWS SERVICE

NEW DELHI, JANUARY 29, 2021

The Economic Survey 2020-21 has recommended the revision of the Food Security Programme (CIP) to reduce food subsidy bill.

“While it is difficult to reduce the consumption of CIP to reduce the bulging food subsidy, there is an urgent need to consider the revision of the CIP,” the Economic Survey 2020-21 has recommended.

The survey has suggested the revision of the CIP by the government.

There are as many as 1,482 urban co-operative banks operating in the country of which 58 banks are multi-state. The total amount of deposits in these banks stands at around Rs.4.84 lakh crore. In addition to this, there is a large network of credit co-operative societies which have complete administrative autonomy and are recognized by the central government and the respective state governments.

The urban co-operative banks should make efforts to create a positive image among the policy makers and the Centre. They should present their problems in Parliament through the All India Co-operative Bankers’ Federation, which represents the banks of Maharashtra, Gujarat and Karnataka have a wide network of branches in the respective states. Nevertheless, around 60-70 banks are multi-state and the rest are state banks.

There is an urgent need for the co-operative sector to revamp itself, improve its co-operative investment, co-operative department, the Reforms Committee and increase the effective use of the same.

The co-operative sector has to prove its worth and importance by means of innovation and efficiency. The discussions about the privatization of co-operative banks are underway since 1993. But the Centre or the Reserve Bank of India has never imposed any compulsion on these banks. States like Maharastra, Gujrat and Karnataka have a wide network of credit co-operative societies and banks. In the country’s GDP, their present turnover of Rs.8 lakh crore is too small.

The Prime Minister Mr. Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Mr. Amit Shah have taken note of such matters and will always be there to support the co-operative sector.

The co-operative banks should stick to the revenue generating mission of the co-operative sector. They have to be錢 conscious. The co-operative sector is a major sector of the country’s GDP as well as the state GDP. The co-operative sector contributes to the financial and social progress of the country and state. Therefore, the Centre’s policy is to support the co-operative sector to increase its reach.

In India, there is a large network of co-operative banks and credit societies. Financial assistance to the poor and the common man as well will help to increase the income of the state and nation.

The Case for Growth

The Economic Survey argues for higher public spending as a means to attract private investment, boosting economy.

The Economic Survey 2020-21

The annual flagship document of the Ministry of Finance, which assesses the performance of the economy in the ongoing financial year, has argued for increased public expenditure to attract private investment.

The survey points out that the government should consider increasing public spending on key sectors such as healthcare, education, and infrastructure to create jobs and reduce unemployment.

It also highlights the need for a policy framework that promotes innovation and entrepreneurship, which can help the economy grow faster.

The Role of Private Investment

Private investment is crucial for the economy's growth, especially after the pandemic hit hard. The survey recommends policies that can encourage more private investment, such as lowering corporate taxes and improving the business environment.

The Importance of Infrastructure

Infrastructure projects, such as roads, airports, and railways, are critical for connecting the economy and facilitating trade. The survey suggests increasing investment in infrastructure to support economic growth.

The Need for Innovation

The survey underscores the importance of innovation in driving economic growth. Policies that encourage R&D spending and support startups are vital for the economy's long-term health.

SACHIN CHATURVEDI

The Economic Survey has set the stage for promoting local production and consumption, laying out the path for a V-shaped rebound.

The Survey advocates countercyclical fiscal policies based on the presumption that growth-led debt dynamics are key drivers of business cycle, the implications of which are far-reaching. Public sector spending is sufficient to take care of India's cumulative public and private debt. In such situations, governments, lawmakers and regulatory agencies have decided to impose additional reporting requirements and self-assessment mechanisms. The Indian government has continued to focus on public sector spending and boosting public sector investment initiatives.

A year with Covid, peak behind India

The decline in numbers looks terminal, but the end may be still some distance away, and it is not yet clear how long immunity will last. Tracing India’s journey to the peaks in case counts and deaths, followed by the decline.

AMITABH SINHA

One of the first time the country, India, is staring at a possible early exit from the pandemic that has already claimed more than 1.5 lakhs, and 14,000 new cases are still getting detected every day. But the curve, which had an extended tail, and it might be several months before the end of the pandemic, is now showing signs of flattening. That is the reason scientists and experts are now optimistic about the possibility of a third wave in India, which is expected to start in June.

India has not only recorded the highest number of daily cases but also the highest number of deaths. The country has recorded more than 1.5 lakhs deaths, and more than 200,000 new cases are reported every day. The curve shows that the peak was reached in the middle of March, and the decline has been slow and steady.

At its peak, India had been reporting over 97,894 new cases per day. But the daily cases have declined to around 100,000 and are expected to fall further. The country recorded a peak of over 30,000 deaths in mid-April, but the number has been slowly declining since then.

HEALTHCARE: INCREASE SPEND FROM 1% TO 2.5-3% OF GDP

Raised govt spending to cut out-of-pocket expenditure

The Survey noted that the Centre's response recognised that a lockdown could be followed by a V-shaped recovery, supported by a vaccination drive.

It said the government needed to "seriously" consider a strategy to construct a comprehensive and accessible healthcare system, given the information that argues that major underpinnings are a "superior" system. It noted the government had prioritised the building of the primary sector of healthcare in the country's total healthcare provision. It also pointed out that a copayment system is provided through the sector to other sectors.

GDP growth rate for FY20 revised down to 4%

India is now projected to grow at a rate of 11.8% in the current financial year, which is one of the highest for any country in the world. This is despite the fact that the pandemic has caused significant disruptions to the global economy.

CFA: Need thrust from businesses

India's government has announced plans to increase private sector spending on R&D to match the level of the top 10 economies of the world, in order to promote innovation and combat the 'large proportion' of deaths in India due to curable diseases. The move is expected to boost the country's GDP growth rate and attract foreign investment.

Health and public spending

India's health indicators are among the worst in the world, with a high number of deaths due to curable diseases. The government has announced plans to increase spending on healthcare to combat this issue, but the details of the plan are yet to be announced.

Infrastructure development

India's infrastructure sector is in dire need of investment, with a lack of funds and a lack of transparency in the allocation of funds. The government has announced plans to increase spending on infrastructure, but the details of the plan are yet to be announced.
